SMITHFIELD MAN CHARGED W/ MURDER

BY BRAD BOWMAN
Reporter/Photographer

A Smithfield man has been charged with murdering his brother-in-law over a property dispute Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky State Police arrested James Fowler, 57, of Smithfield, after determining that a dispute over a property line allegedly led Fowler to shoot Nick Biblehauser in the head with a handgun.

Biblehauser, the brother of Fowler's wife, was declared dead at the scene by assistant Henry County Coroner Mike Paris.

Troopers found Bibelhauser, 61, of Smithfield dead from a gunshot wound to the head.

Fowler

KSP Post 5 Public Affairs Officer Trooper Brad Arterburn said this isn't the first time police have been called to the residence.

"We have been out there several times over property disputes," Arterburn said. "They live next to each other and have disputed over where a property line is."

The shooting occurred at 3:19 p.m. Saturday at Bibelhauser's residence at 7634 Ballardsville Road in Smithfield.

After interviewing witnesses, detectives charged the alleged shooter James Fowler, 57, of Smithfield with murder, Arterburn said.

Troopers took Fowler to the Carroll County Regional Detention Center, where he remains lodged on a $100,000 bond.

KSP Detective Kurt Buhts is leading the investigation. Detective Buhts was assisted at

Portrait artist to do Coach D mural

BY BRAD BOWMAN
Reporter/Photographer

Clint Hedges loves doing portrait art.

Unlike a landscape piece where a tree can be a few inches off from its original spot, a portrait of a grandmother's face must be exact or Hedges feels like he hasn't given his client their money's worth.

The eyes and nose must be spaced exactly to her true features or the whole picture is off. Hedges loves that kind of challenge.

"It's also very motivating when the subject of the drawing (if I'm doing one of an athlete, or some type of celebrity) sees the picture on Facebook, or wherever, and wants one for themselves, or their family," Hedges said. "Several former and current Kentucky Wildcats and a couple Louisville and WKU basketball players all have purchased pictures for themselves from me, and it doesn't get much cooler."

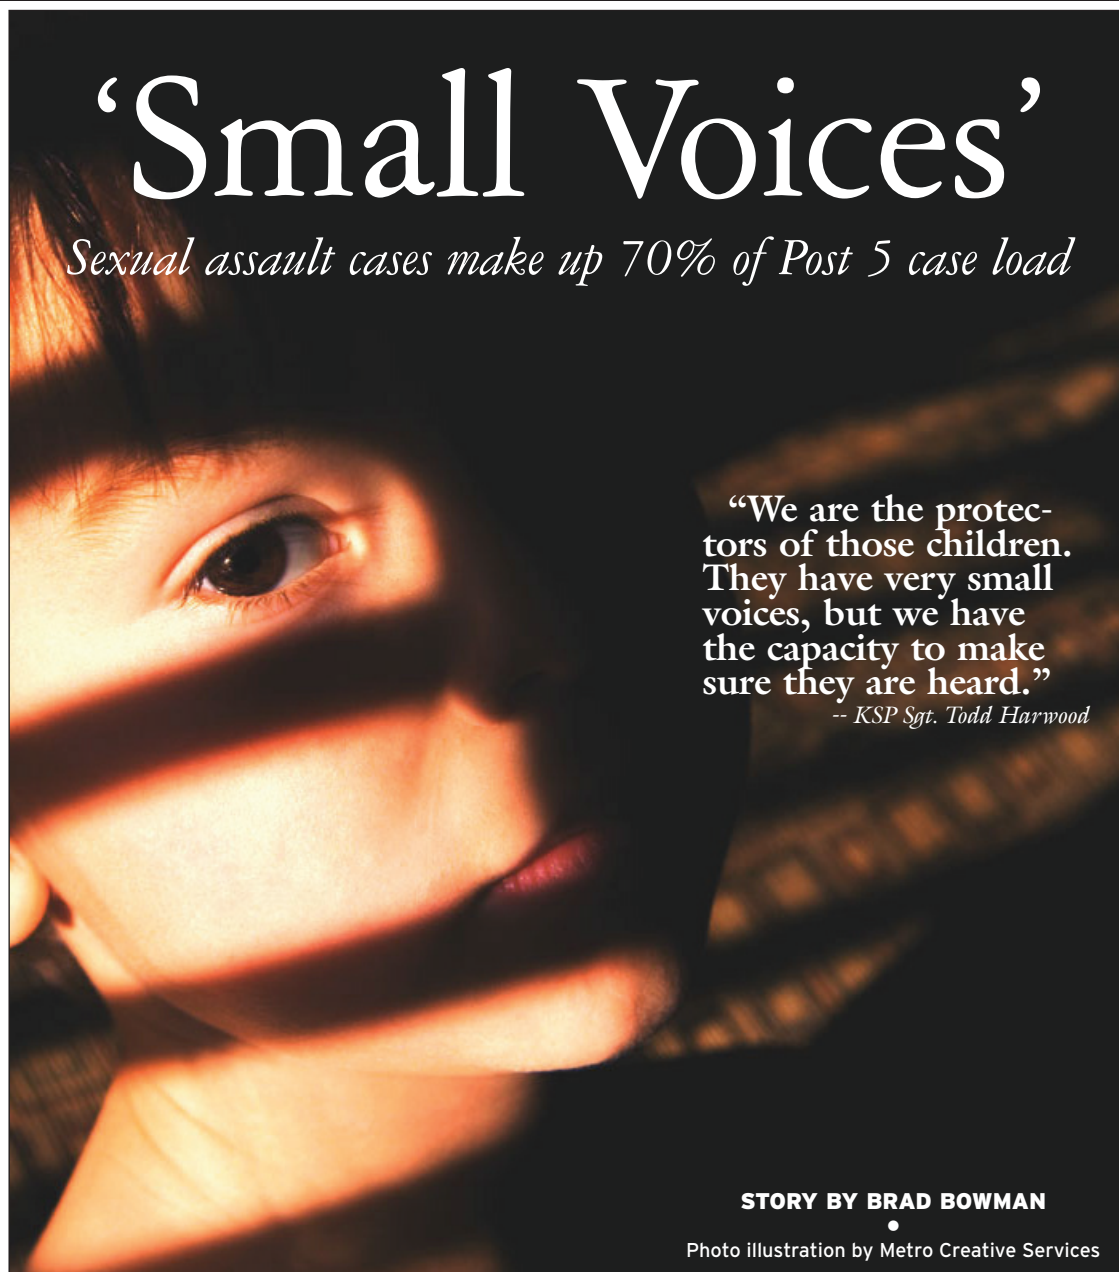

Eminence City Council has commissioned Hedges to paint murals at the Coach D Park in Eminence. Hedges plans on painting silhouettes of children doing various athletic activities surrounding a portrait of Coach "D" Dewayne Douglas.

"He (Coach Douglas) obviously needs to be included in the picture," Hedges said. "He deserves it."

Hedges started drawing when he was 5. When he reached his teenage years, Hedges would often get bored when the neighbors his age weren't home to play with. Instead of complaining there was nothing to do, he started sitting down and drawing. For Hedges, it turned out to be a great way to practice and refine his skill.

"Art class was always my favorite in school. It's just that there was no consistency," Hedges said. "During my four years in high school,

'Small Voices'

Sexual assault cases make up 70% of Post 5 case load

"We are the protectors of those children. They have very small voices, but we have the capacity to make sure they are heard."

Sexual abuse cases make up 70 percent of Kentucky State Police Post 5 detectives' caseload. Most of those may never be prosecuted.

KSP Sergeant Todd Harwood almost guarantees that a new case lands on a detectives' desks at least once a week.

On the detectives' assignment board there are more cases of sexual abuse, rape and sodomy than any other investigation.

During the next session of Circuit Court in Henry County, Circuit Court Judge Karen Conrad will hear cases totaling three counts of 1st degree sexual abuse; three counts of 1st degree sexual abuse with a victim under 12; 14 counts of 1st degree unlawful transaction with a minor; an illicit sex act under the age of 16; use of a minor under 16 in sex performance; two counts of 1st degree rape; one count of 2nd degree rape; and 2nd degree sodomy.

Most child sex abuse cases will not be prosecuted or taken to court, Harwood said.

"It's one of the most frustrating aspects of sexual abuse cases," Harwood said. "You know how they did it, when they did it and in a courtroom you have a child against an adult where a jury expects CSI-type evidence."

Most victims don't report sexual abuse right away and evidence cannot be obtained. Sexual abuse cases most always are reported later when DNA evidence isn't pristine, physical evidence on the body has healed and in some cases not reported for several years.

"The perpetrator almost always is someone the victim knows," Harwood said. "Because of the age of the child they may not be able to articulate things the way they happened. Children see the world and remember in ways that is a different timeline than adults. Sometimes it can discredit them in a trial."

Embarrassment and family dynamics also delay victims in reporting sexual abuse.

"Sex abuse has always been there, but because kids are more educated this isn't a family secret kept behind closed doors anymore," Harwood said. "Kids are tweeting, using Facebook

With closure, city will lose historic buildings

BY BRAD BOWMAN
Reporter/Photographer

Three more buildings along East Broadway may soon join the demolished history of Eminence's past.

Eminence City Council read the final ordinance last week to close the Browning's Lane alley. Eminence Mayor Drane Stephens said all the property owners with butting access and easements along Browning Lane had to verbally agree to a consent to sell to CVS. According to Stephens, the remaining buildings would be cleared for construction.

Since 1992, the stretch between Farmer's Deposit Bank on Main Street and the corner of Broadway which boasted the Fuqua House, later called the Moody House and the Halcyon (peaceful) Hotel, and the Bauer Building, most recently known as Lola's, was cleared, and is now the Browning Chevrolet car lot.

On the corner of East Broadway and Penn Street, Slaughter's Dry Goods Store occupied the bottom portion of the building most recently known as King's Auto Parts. The once prominent round tower feature on the corner of the building was damaged by a tornado in 2004.

Eminence Theater owner Arey Miles once stated in an interview that 'Old Man' Rapp was a butcher who had the building built. The upper level of the building referred to as Rapp's Hall had a stage with scenery and curtains. Later called Rapp's Opera House, the space was also considered the town community hall where graduation would be held. Members of the Eminence Methodist Church lost their church in a fire in 1891 when the Miles Livery Stable burned down. Until the new church was completed, the congregation met in several places and most regularly at the Opera House.

Many residents remember the upstairs as John McDaniel's Dance Hall. People would often park their cars on Saturdays just to get a parking spot for the return home that night. Eminence resident Juanita Jefferies never made it into the building. But she remembers the excitement of people watching on a Saturday night and

The Silver Run fun sans grizzly bears

It's pouring rain outside; it's 48 degrees; and everyone around is all smiles. Why? It's play-time, and for many Alaskans, that translates into fishing time. True, it is a bit nippy and we need to wear gloves and a coat or heavy jacket, but what's there to complain about? After all, the salmon are the ones swimming in the cold water and heading straight for our dinner table! We just get to whoop and holler as we reel them in. Then, of course, begins the work of preserving the catch. I am always happy to see the huge filets of a silver salmon going into my freezer.

For myself, and many others living in the Alaskan interior, play time involves a lot of work! First, camping supplies must be gathered and organized. Next, comes the fishing and boating equipment; every net, rod, reel, tackle box, cooler and life jacket should be cleaned and ready to go. Then, there is the matter of food — don't count on being able to shop anywhere - take it with you (where I like to go, there is one grocery store in about 100 miles).

Once packed, load the family and pets and drive for nine hours to get to "that special place." With gas prices running from $4.04 to $4.39 per gallon, this is not an easy treat on the pocketbook. Sometimes, we camp overnight on the way; other times, we drink coffee and switch drivers.

When we arrive at our destination, we walk the pets, set up camp, purchase ice for the coolers, check the tide book, and check out the bear situation. After all of this, we gear up and grab the fishing equipment as we head for the water. Sometimes, the trip last for 3 or 4 days; other times it last for a week or so. Day after day, rain or sun, we gear up and head for the water. So, what happens if the fish are not biting or the salmon run is just not as strong as usual? Does it mean a wasted trip? A ruined vacation? Not at all. It simply means time to do other things.

In the little community where I like to fish, you can see bunny rabbits on main street; watch little kids learn to ride bikes, discuss the fishing catch and weather with complete strangers, visit a museum, or stop by the library for some quiet time with yourself and a good book. This, though, is after you have taken care of any fish that have been caught. It all depends on the catch. Some years, we have been up to the wee hours of the morning processing fish. Then, we sleep for a few hours and start all over again!

For 14 years of doing the silver run, I have yet to be bored. There is always something happening. Two nights ago, a black bear wandered into camp. He stopped about three feet from me, stared at me long enough to take his picture, took another step forward, turned and headed away from camp. Maybe, he changed his mind about the tacos we were having for supper. Regardless of what changed his mind, I'm glad he decided to retreat.

The last time we were here, a grizzly decided to stroll through the downtown area. He was just loping along; neither fast nor slow; just out for a bit of a stroll. He headed into a residential area. The sheriff's department was a minute behind, stopping only long enough for us to show which way the bear went.

Fishing may not be everyone's idea of a fun vacation, but fishing and good friends certainly make it a fun time for me, even without the bears!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Citizen involvement and civic pride

Every town needs it to prosper and Eminence has it! As an example, perhaps you've noticed lately the change in the Eminence Cemetery. Those stark dead tree trunk that stood defiantly throughout the cemetery since the tornadoes of the early 1970s are gone. Removing them was the first phase of a plant to bring our venerable cemetery back to its heritage of beauty and dignity.

The inspiration to do this refurbishing came from Eminence residents and others who live and continue to love Eminence. They are Kay Coomes, Martha Sparrow Hall, Tim Adams, C.A. Berry, William H. Mason Jr., Stanley Clark (who is also sexton) and Ted Bates. The above are members of the Eminence Cemetery Board of Directors. Legal advisor William Brammell Sr. is also of this group.

The Eminence Cemetery was chartered by the Kentucky State Legislature in 1860. Its first burial was in 1864. The land was purchased from the Wilson family, ancestors of Kent Floyd, a present day attorney in New Castle.

When the cemetery was opened a number of people who had been buried on their farms in the vicinity were moved to the cemetery.

Those men of 1860 who had the vision and so made possible our cemetery had names many of which are still in our community: Clubb, Bright, McCorkie, Brown, Swinney, Wilson and Crabb. They were the Eminence Cemetery Board of that day. For one and a half centuries their creation has been the "going home" resting place for heroes of five wars as well as for our families and loved ones.

More renovation with new trees and shrubbery, improved roads, straightening of monuments, etc. needs to be done. Citizens of Eminence, you will have your chance to help. Show your willingness to get involved.

With love and determination

On behalf of all the Fassio family, I wanted to publish a short "thank-you" to everyone who has visited, or offered up prayers and support as my family and I go through this difficult time. For those of you not fully aware, I have a stage 4, terminal cancer of the appendix and abdominal wall. It is a rare cancer, aggressive and hard to root out. The options are death or treatment, so it is no surprise that we are aggressively researching treatment centers. I must recuperate at home from this surgery (another 2-3 weeks) and try to gain strength and weight in order to undergo the chemo. I'll then go "on the road" for treatments at whatever cancer center is best suited for us. If you want to follow my travails, my wife has created a blog page on www.caringbridge.org/visits/markfassio that we try to update with our progress. To those who have commented or visited there, thank you! Your words bring me to tears.

The most important thing I want to say here is that I love and appreciate you all, especially for the support and for the prayer networks being generated out there. If everyone is praying as they say, this thing will be a cinch to heal! As the Lord's Prayer directs, "Thy will be done," and we are trusting in God's will to get us through. I want you to know that Henry County truly has become my home, and that everyone who offered up prayers, support, stopped by to see me, or just passes on well-wishes are true family members to me now. You don't know how much we appreciate and value you for your support!

I ask that you continue to keep us in your prayers — the road ahead is hard and I will need determination to gut it out, but we're going to beat this thing. Thanks again to all of you who have been there for us!

Lt. Col. Mark Fassio and the Fassio Family

Fiscal responsibility should be commended

I truly hope my fellow Henry County residents realize how fortunate we are to have fiscally responsible county leaders. ("Magistrates to cut $150k from budget")

Politicians nationwide love to raise taxes and increase spending. Taxpayer's money, spent on the currently acceptable special interest, can mean votes for politicians; and politicians love votes. Big budgets make politicians feel powerful. This goes along with the theory that government can solve everyone's problems. One only has to look to the highly taxed states of California, New York, or Illinois to see the fallacy in this thinking.

Even Democrats like me are realizing, thanks in part to the current occupant of the White House, that government cannot continue to spend without grave consequences for the future of our country. While there's always another "good cause", government is not the answer.

In the past, fiscal responsibility has not been as popular as spending taxpayer money. Judge-Executive John Logan Brent and our magistrates are to be commended for the courage to say "no" to the endless cycle of higher spending and higher taxes.

Forget Fox, remember reason

I had not intended my July 25 letter to be solely a defense of the Affordable Care Act, but to point out the widespread deception of Mr. (Geoff) Davis and his party, and the unquestioning acceptance of these lies by many people on many issues.

The responses to date have been ad hominem and none contained any facts, much less sources. The responses clearly prove that the modern GOP has an efficient propaganda machine catering to a populace that is either gullible or just too lazy to search for the truth. I provided sources and disparaged no one except our Congressman. Suggestion for future writers: Using Sean Hannity or the Regnery Press as authority does not count. You know who Sean Hannity is. Regnery Press is a right-wing publishing house that prints gutless books with titles such as "Obama: Baby Killer or Godless Terrorist?"

My dentist, the formidable Dr. Jay, made fair criticism — cost and bureaucracy — and noted that the ACA may or may not work. He also pointed out that neither he nor I have the knowledge or experience to know what the long-term outcome will be — again, more than fair. We do, however, have the means to analyze other systems. Until the ACA, we were the only industrialized country without some type of universal health care. (For an excellent comparison of different systems, see "International Profiles of Health Care Systems [of 13 countries]" at www.common-wealthfund.org.)

I don't intend to respond to every point of Mr. Vegh's letter, but I will note that his sentence "[Obamacare takes] away from someone who has earned and giving it to someone whom has not" is not only just plain wrong, it is based on the aphorism that those who are wealthy deserve to be wealthy; those that are poor deserve to be poor. Not all of us that are well-off got there by hard work, nor did those who are less well-off become so because of sloth and laziness. Life is just not that simple — but the modern-day GOP seems to have convinced many of this black and white view of the world. Oh, and the answer to his question is while Bill Clinton was president.

Mrs. Creech wrote "this bill will add ...16,000 new IRS agents." The part that Creech left out is that this army of IRS agents hired to enforce Obamacare will also be trained to give eye exams and diet advice. When I got to the part of the letter where she repeated the IRS agents myth again, I simply stopped reading — and if I were to claim that you have proved my point, this would be the prime example. Why people feel compelled to repeat this lie is baffling. This canard was begun by Newt Gingrich, echoed by Paul Ryan in April 2010, and was quickly debunked.

By the way, can you name one freedom you enjoyed on Jan. 19, 2009, that you are without today?

It is disheartening to watch folks throw up their hands and ask, 'who are we to believe?' or say that both sides lie. Of course Democrats have been known to fudge the facts on occasion. But the amount of liberal prevarication does not even come close to the level of dishonesty generated by today's right-wing fraud machine.

According to Thomas E. Mann and Norman J. Ornstein (a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute, a conservative think-tank), as written in the Washington Post on April 27: "We have been studying... Congress for more than 40 years, and never have we seen them this dysfunctional. In our past writings, we have criticized both parties when we believed it was warranted. Today, however, we have no choice but to acknowledge that the core of the problem lies with the Republican Party."

Former Florida Governor Charlie Crist, a Republican, wrote in the Tampa Bay Times on Aug. 26, that "[The Republican] party has pitched so far to the extreme right on issues important to women, immigrants, seniors and students that they've proven incapable of governing for the people."

This fall, my home state will once again join the ranks of other states where the voting population remains fixated on the culture wars ("keep 'em thinkin' about God, guns and gays") and aligns with the party that will ultimately double-cross those same voters on pocketbook issues. The number of people willing, even eager, to vote against their own economic interests is staggering. If you are a woman, a member of a minority, a small farmer, or if you work for an hourly wage in an office or factory and vote Republican, I simply don't know what to tell you. You will not "save America" by voting against the Kenyan socialist and all of the evils you have been led to believe he stands for. You will save the country by turning off Fox News and going to the library.

David needs your help! And so does Mona

Do you remember the story of David in the Bible? He held a slingshot to fight off Goliath.

Well, I feel like David as I have been issued a challenge with Bullitt and Shelby Counties. We are having a competition: who can walk the most steps on Sept. 29, in simultaneous walks in our counties. I feel like David as both counties are much bigger than we. However, even if we are small we are mighty and we can win.

Each person attending the walk will receive a goody bag that will include a pedometer donated by Walgreens. Our walk will be held at Henry County Recreational Park at the new track. Registration is at 8:30 a.m., and the walk will start at 9 a.m. We will walk until 10:30; Yes you can take rest periods. At 10:30 your steps will be recorded and we will see who the winner is. You can pre-register by calling me. (Mona Huff at 845-6849) There will be gifts for the winner of different age categories. We will have special groups to entertain and snacks.

Henry County, come to my rescue. If we do not win, I have to clean Judge John Logan's toilet. Please, I do not want to do that. If we win, we will have great bragging rights as well as a beautiful trophy and so much county pride. Also, this will be the kick-off event for the newly formed walking club. To be a part of the walking activity all you have to do is either find or form a walking team, or walk by yourself and record your steps. You will be given information on how to get the information to the excel worksheet queen — Brenda Mason — and each month we will know how many steps Henry County has walked! We would like to see schools, churches, businesses, and families all walking to bring us together and help implement a healthy initiative for the whole community. Please, join us.

and they are not as closed off from people anymore. They are telling their friends, counselors and teachers.” Sex abuse cases come in cycles to detectives at Post 5. Reporting spikes occur during school spring break and the summer months. Children are on vacation or at camps where they are exposed to other people like counselors and not their normal routine that may involve the perpetrator.

Signs of abuse

Parents, guardians or caretakers should take psychological changes in children as possible cues of sexual abuse. Children will occasionally seem more sexualized, mimic sexual acts or touch other children after sexual abuse. “Watch your child and take notice if they are more withdrawn,” Harwood said. “Frequent bedwetting, difficulty sleeping are all signs to look for.” Parents also should monitor what children are telling their friends on Facebook if they are permitted to use it. Look at their artwork and the things they write for evidence of uncharacteristic behavior or themes indicating abuse. Law enforcement officials encourage family members to talk with children. Male victims are less likely to report than a female. How you question and talk with your child is just as important to the case as evidence.

How to report

There are certain things that can jeopardize a sex abuse case and make for a more difficult conviction.

- If a child says they have been sexually abused don’t question them any further. Law enforcement should be contacted immediately.
- “It protects the integrity of the investigation and helps us bring justice to the victim,” Harwood said. “If a jury or defense attorney suspects that a victim has been lead to the charge it is harder to convict.”
- No one should confront the suspected perpetrator.
- “Family members that confront the perpetrator, give the suspect time to rehearse their defense, evidence can be compromised,” Harwood said. “It allows us to make our first priority the safety of the child.”

The Exploited Children’s Help Organization in Louisville offers these additional guidelines to parents:

- Believe your child. Young children rarely lie about sexual abuse.
- Reassure your child. It will aid in setting the tone for your child’s recovery from the trauma
- Tell your child that you believe them and assure them they did the right by telling someone.

- Call Child Protective Services and law enforcement.

Protocol for protection and prosecution

- Victims should be interviewed by child advocacy officials through social services who conduct forensics interviews and implement techniques, which meet the legal requirements of the court. Medical staff will also be available.
- Law enforcement officials can obtain search warrants for bedding, clothing, furniture, text messages and materials like photographs.
- Law enforcement can interview the suspect. Use a polygraph test as a tool for the grand jury and prosecution.
- “Social services help us put together a safety plan first and remove the child or the perpetrator from the home,” Harwood said. “Social services can get an emergency custody order. Most individuals will cooperate at this point if they are perpetrator to prove their innocence.”

Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney Courtney Baxter’s caseload is usually made up of 50 percent sex abuse cases. Her prosecution relies heavily on witnesses not being tainted — not being interviewed too many times to get a case before the grand jury. She works closely with Teresa Leet Victim Advocate of the 12th Judicial District, as a liaison who helps victims receive counseling and provides the victim information and notification everyday service which includes updates after every court hearing, the offender’s status and protective order information.

“Sexual abuse steals a victim’s childhood and we can’t give it back to them,” Baxter said. “We have the obstacles of delayed reporting, sometimes lack of physical evidence a juror wants and sometimes victims recant unintentionally or tell their mother and sister conflicting stories that may jeopardize their credibility.”

Baxter stressed that jurors want to have physical evidence so they can, without a reasonable doubt convict the perpetrator.

“There are certain things most people don’t realize about sex abuse cases until they are educated,” Baxter said. “The body can recover from physical damage done during rape or sodomy in as little as 24 hours. They don’t understand why a child doesn’t immediately call 911 after they are abused because they are scared and confused.”

Baxter stressed it is important for children to receive counseling.

“It helps the child while they are going through recovery and the conviction process,” Baxter said. “It also helps us understand what the child can withstand in a trial setting. Baxter believes sex offenders should be punished and the biggest issue can be lack of evidence.

“CSI-type shows provide great entertainment, but are sometimes unrealistic,” Baxter said. “They wrap the bad guy up in a bow with DNA evidence and the case is solved. Jurors take their job very seriously. They want the DNA so they can be sure they are absolutely correct. Documentation helps us. Text messages, phone records, anything that corroborates a victim’s account will help.”

Preventive measures

Kentucky State Police detectives Tim Moore and Steven Goodale both stress the need to know who your children are around. Contact law enforcement immediately to report abuse and listen to your children.

“Parents also need to be aware of where their children are,” Goodale said. “Whether it is a sleepover or parties. Use software to filter what your children are able to view on the Internet like Safe Eyes every measure helps.”

Safe Eyes is a software product put out by McAfee that allows parents to filter what sites their children visit and also keeps a detailed history of where they have been.

“I enjoy what I do and I want to help children that really need it,” Moore said. “If you can affect one child’s life and bring them justice it is worth it.”

Detectives also advise parents to use online tools like the sex offender registry to see where offenders are located.

“Despite the number of registered sex offenders listed,” Moore said, “you have to realize there probably should be at least ten more that aren’t.”

The caseload and nature of sex crimes can be daunting to detectives Harwood stressed, but the reward compels them.

“For me it’s about the little girl who was abused by her stepfather in a case I investigated several years ago,” Harwood said. “The mother wrote to me that she still mentions me and wanted me to be her daddy. We are the protectors of those children. They have very small voices, but we have the capacity to make sure they are heard.”

For information on reporting abuse call Seven Counties Services 1-800-221-0446.

I had three different art teachers. My senior year was Mrs. Robin McHone’s first year as the art teacher there. I’m glad there’s consistency now. She now teaches both my sons.” Hedges lives in Eminence and graduated from EIS in 2000. He attended Sullivan University in Louisville for a short time and lived in campus housing. At 30, Hedges appreciates where he lives.

“I’ve lived in Eminence my whole life. I really prefer the small town atmosphere—it’s not in the middle of nowhere, but it’s not congested like a big city,” Hedges said. “Eminence is the happy medium.”

Hedges has worked at the Kentucky Department of Tourism and Travel for 10 years. He would like to have his own studio and gallery eventually. He would use the space to show his artwork and share it with other local artists.

“What I’m doing with my art now is basically what I’d like to be doing with it,” Hedges said. “I always have orders for individual commissions, but I would probably need to raise my prices and I’d need more orders to be able to quit my day job and become a full-time artist. I’d rather not raise my prices. Several of my customers especially locally, I know personally I’d be pricing them out of getting the work done.”

Hedges’ works range from UK basketball players to UFC fighter Chuck Liddell, writer Wendell Berry and portraits of toddlers. Hedges did a portrait of a classmate’s WWII picture of his grandfather.

Hedges’ children play soccer with Eminence Mayor Drane Stephens’ children and Stephens called Hedges to see if he was interested in doing the pieces. Hedges will begin working on the murals this week.

Hedges worked out the outlines as practice to gauge size and proportion before adding them to the wall.

The murals will be painted on the gray wall visible from the parking lot. All the silhouettes will be approximately life size.

Despite his proficiency at capturing a subject’s likeness in a portrait, Hedges is more impressed with his sons Justin and Jeremiah.

“The coolest thing is seeing my kids being able to draw and pick up on what they see from me,” Hedges said. “If drawing and painting is what they want to do when they get older, I’ll definitely be there to support them and help out however I can. It’s just important that they have the desire to be better than me.”

the scene by the Eminence Police Department, Henry County EMS and the Henry County Deputy Coroner.

Bibelhauser worked as a bus driver for The HDB Service Group, which created Oldham County’s public bus service and also provides transportation for seniors.

He viewed his job as more than a bus driver.

Co-workers remember Bibelhauser using his time behind the wheel as a chance to serve others.

He shared home-grown produce with passengers, but his helping hand didn’t stop with tomatoes or squash.

One elderly passenger mentioned her embarrassment at her unkempt yard, and Bibelhauser showed up on a Saturday morning to mow it.

After seeing a passenger nearly fall as she walked from her home, he power washed her ramp.

And on rainy days, he sometimes drove passengers all the way to their door, rather than having them walk in the rain.

His attitude permeated to all who worked for the bus service. In his words, “Lotta people count on us. Can’t let ‘em down!”

Funeral visitation is 3 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at Heady-Radcliffe Funeral Home in La Grange. A Funeral mass is 10 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 5 at St. John’s Catholic Church in Eminence.

In 2008, Bibelhauser’s residence was the subject of a home invasion, in which he, his wife and son were held hostage.

Two men were charged in connection with the home invasion.

One man, Robert Bryant, entered a guilty plea in 2010 and was sentenced to 50 years in prison.

Johnny Lee Gibson also was charged in connection to the home invasion, and his trial was held earlier this year.

But a jury did not find him guilty.

The Oldham Era’s Jacqueline Stoess Hack contributed to this report.

like much of the residents of the surrounding area, enjoyed Eminence's lively nightlife.

"It was known to be a rowdy place with foot stomping country music," Jefferies said. "My daddy would park our car and then walk home so we would have a parking space at night. That was before you had parallel parking. He said he better never catch us walking up those stairs to the dance hall."

According to Jefferies, you didn't need to go upstairs to hear the music.

"The windows would be raised so you could hear the music. They didn't have air conditioning then," Jefferies said. "We would watch to see who went in and who came out. Sometimes you could catch someone who had gotten in a fight and thrown down the stairs out of the dance hall."

Slaughter's below the hall, sold dry goods and utilitarian items, Jefferies said.

"You could buy dresses and shoes there," Jefferies said. "My mother bought a pair of shoes in the store once for $1 with little heels on them. I wore them when I took my first train trip. I was all fixed up and my sister and sister-in-law said I had mother's dollar heels on."

The second building to the left of Slaughter's was once the site of the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company. The building later would be one of the numerous liquor stores as Eminence is the county's only "wet" city.

Jimmy Howse opened Howse Liquors in 1952. He sold the business in the late 1950s to J.T. Wilson and Lester Ritchie.

Ballard and Marjorie Payne opened B&M Grill in 1955 in the other half of the building. The Paynes' hamburgers were said to rival most restaurants in town and was often compared to Spencer Bond's hamburgers at the Pleasureville Pool Hall. The Paynes worked at the business until 1988 when they sold it to George and Fran Kelley. The name was then changed to Kelley's Bar & Grill. This building most recently would be known as Chumbo's. The same tornado in 2004 badly damaged the building's roof and has since sat vacant.

The final building along the strip was once the Kentucky Utilities office. In the summer of 1915, Wheeler Early and Ben Pollard started an open air movie theater called an air dome. Before drive-ins, air dome movie theaters became popular around the turn of the century. They offered an alternative to early 1900s movie theaters that couldn't be cooled adequately during the summer months before air conditioning. The audience typically would watch the movies on a building façade with musical accompaniment.

The Kentucky Utilities Company kept an office in Eminence until it was joined with an office in Shelby County. The present building houses Lee Family Chiropractic.

Downtown Eminence still has many turn of the century buildings along Main Street.

The Eminence Historic Commercial District was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1979. The title lists the areas of Penn Street, Main Street and Broadway.

The area covered by the designation contains 28 buildings, including 10 that faced the streets. Most of the buildings were built during the height of the railroad boom throughout the state. They are noted on the registry for the turn of century architect style periods specifically from 1875-1899 and the years of 1850-1874.

National Register Coordinator of the Kentucky Heritage Council Marty Perry said the National Register is used as a planning tool for Federal agencies, more than as a tool to limit owners from changing their property. Federal agencies must look for ways to mitigate negative impacts on properties that qualify for the cultural landscape of a Registered property or area when it involves government entities. Perry stressed that many surrounding areas cities like Shelbyville in Shelby County or Louisville have local protection ordinances and laws passed which lead to the misconception it is protection from the National Register that is behind the protection. "If demolition happens without federal assistance or the need to obtain a permit from a federal agency, city or county governments have the right to condemn the properties, purchase the property and develop it. Local protection laws and ordinances are often confused with what protection the National Register gives," Perry said.

Ensure safety when handling melons

The recent salmonella outbreak traced to cantaloupes grown in Indiana has many Kentuckians concerned about consuming melons, but it doesn't necessarily mean that you have to abstain from eating this fresh summer delicacy. When properly handled, melons can be a safe, satisfying treat. Here are some tips on how to safely handle melons:

- Buy melons from a local, reputable source. The shorter the distance food has to travel from farm to table, the less of a chance that microorganisms have grown on the produce. Microorganisms need time to multiply.

- Wash your hands before and after handling fresh produce.
- Before consuming, rinse melons with clean, running water and use a clean vegetable brush to scrub away debris on the skin, even if they have been prewashed. Washing the skin of fresh produce is important even if you are going to only eat the inside of the fruit as bacteria on the skin can be transferred to the flesh of the fruit when it is sliced.

- Do not use dishwashing or hand soap to wash produce. These items have not been tested for use on food.

- Cut melons using clean, sanitized knives and cutting boards.
- Once sliced, melons must be stored below 40 degrees Fahrenheit and consumed within a few days.
- Avoid consuming any melons if the store, restaurant or market does not know where they were grown. You may also want to avoid purchasing pre-sliced melons as you do not know whether proper safety precautions were taken in their processing.

For more information on food safety, contact your Henry County Cooperative Extension Service. Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

19th century lynch mob justice

BY BRAD BOWMAN
Reporter/Photographer

The Henry and Owen County and Kentucky River Marauders terrorized residents in Owen and Henry County for a reported 16 years before a lynch mob took justice into their own hands and four suspects from New Castle Jail.

The marauders have been credited with the lawless activity in the Kentucky River area spanning Owen, Henry and Carroll Counties, which caused federal troops to be called in to restore peace during the late 1800s. A telegraphed story from Campbellsburg recounts a tale after the Civil War of a band of roughriders forcing African Americans from Henry County.

The main source of the group's exploits came from the questionable confession of Richard Shuck the night before his execution.

Richard Shuck was a member of the gang consisting of leader 'King Jim' Simmons, his son-in-law Bob Goodrich and his brothers Joe and Sam. Shuck had been charged with the murder of father-in-law Nelson Parish in Gratz. Witnesses saw Shuck with Parish in his father-in-law's tobacco patch.

Shuck later came back to Parish's house alone telling Parish's wife that, "The old man will never come back. He has gone to Henry County. I have bought his tobacco crop. Don't keep dinner, for we won't be on hand."

Residents discovered Parish's body after putting out a fire at the schoolhouse near Parish's tobacco crop in Brown's Bottom in Owen County. A written account by Alan Trout of the Courier-Journal in 1939 stated that Shuck as a resident was obligated to respond to the fire and acted strangely when neighbors identified Parish's body by a pocketknife left on the body. Several bits of circumstantial evidence also aided in the conviction of Richard Shuck. He possessed a counterfeit bill that had belonged to Parish as well. While drinking in a tavern, Shuck bragged about buying Parish's tobacco crop and tried to pay off a debt with the counterfeit bill.

With the aid of Jesse Fears, Shuck wrote a confession admitting he and the group's involvement in crimes consisting of murder and robbery. The marauders' modus operandi usually involved tying rope around a victim's neck and a heavy rock before tossing them into the Kentucky River sometimes while they were still alive. This was the case for the murder of John O'Nan.

According to Shuck's confession, 10 to 12 marauders deliberated near Harper's Ferry about how to dispose of O'Nan's body.

"...The shot was not aimed right, and struck him on the arm and broke it," Shuck confessed. "He begged that if we could not spare his life to give him time to pray."

One of the marauders told O'Nan that time did not allow it.

Shuck names Jackson Simmons and David Carter as gang members who helped him put O'Nan in the river.

The following Saturday night in 1871, Shuck and several members of what Shuck called the 'Ku-Klux' in Lockport whipped a man that lived in the Six-Mile hills for "...being indolent and addicted to drunkenness, giving his family but little of his attend, and of which they greatly stood in need." Shuck concluded the event had a good effect, "...causing him to quit the tippling-shops and give himself to industry, which was means of causing him to prosper."

Shuck, Simmons, Bob Goodrich and David Carter were in Louisville when they 'fell into the company' of a man conducting business for a recently widowed sister. The motley crew convinced the man to wait until daylight when they all could take the train back to Pleasureville. The man's home was six to eight miles away and with darkness approaching, the band shared some of their whiskey with him.

Upon reaching a cave near Six Mile Creek, they told the gentlemen they heard a sound. When he sought out the source inside the cave, they all accompanied him. Shuck credited Simmons with shooting the man with a pistol in the head. They emptied his pockets and tossed his body into the cave.

"...It fell with a crash that echoed back, and inspired an awe that would have made the run chill of any but such as had had their consciences seared by the repetition of crime," Shuck said.

Six miles between Hardin's Bottom and Lockport, the group murdered the son of John James who stole $14.75 from his father's bureau. His son initially confided to the group his father hid $56 in his bureau, but decided to not to take it all. Carter, Simmons, Goodrich and Shuck threw his body into a sinkhole after finding the lesser amount with much disappointment.

Shuck confessed to two robberies involving a peddler and a wool trader from Madison, Ind. In 1874. He would implicate the gang in killing a man near Port Ripple named Galligan.

Shuck denied killing his father-in-law and named the rest in his band as being responsible. The group lead by Simmons was rumored to be operating near Scott County and hiding out near Stamping Ground Road in a two-story log house known as Simmon's Inn. Shuck gave the location of a peddler's body where a skeleton was found, but the man would soon arrive back in town after authorities hung Shuck.

Outrage infected residents in both Owen and Henry County. On the afternoon of Sept. 3, 1877 it was reported that an informant warned County Judge Jacob Smith that King Jim and the Goodrich brothers, recently captured and held in the New Castle jail, would be mobbed. The judge dismissed the threat as he had heard it before. After midnight a group of masked men rode into town and took the men. A smaller group was reported to have gone to William O'Brien's home and forced him to give them rope. The mob took the men to the single arched bridge over Drennon Creek near New Castle city limits where they were hanged. Witnesses claimed that the rope around Bob Goodrich's neck broke and he hit his head on a creek rock. The mob hanged Goodrich again with a tighter noose.

There are many conflicting accounts to whether Shuck acted alone in some of his exploits and confessed to escape his hanging. Authorities never determined the identity of the skeleton found in the sinkhole. 'King' Jim's body was buried in the cemetery, which is now a ball field next to the Henry County Board of Education.

WARRIORS SOAR OVER HAWKS, NOW 3-0

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

The Eminence Warriors made it three in a row on the road Thursday night with a 44-6 victory over Riverview East Academy of Cincinnati. The Warriors opened up a 14-0 lead on the Hawks and never looked back on their way to a 3-0 record.

Brandon Mitchell got the Warriors started early in the first quarter when he intercepted a Riverview pass and returned it for a 31-yard touchdown. DeMarcus Bailey ran three yards for the 2-point conversion to make it 8-0.

Later in the quarter Bradley Foree scored on a 12-yard run but the conversion failed and the Warriors led 14-0.

In the closing seconds of the opening period Justin Mitchell connected with big brother Brandon for a 16-yard touchdown pass. Mitchell then hit Curtis Barrett on the conversion pass to make it 22-0 at the end of the quarter.

The Warriors added another score in the second quarter when Foree romped 29 yards for a touchdown. The conversion attempt failed and the score stood at 28-0.

Riverview then put together a 55 yard drive that was helped by a 15 yard penalty on the Warriors and scored from the 1 yard line to make it 28-6.

The Warriors added two more touchdowns in the third quarter. The first came on another 29-yard run by Foree, and Mitchell Golden caught a Justin Mitchell pass for the conversion making it 36-6. The final touchdown came on a 14-yard run by Shelby Armstrong. Foree ran in the conversion attempt to make it 44-6.

Neither team managed to put points on the board in the final quarter.

Coach Steve Frommeyer was pleasantly surprised by the lopsided outcome. "In pre-game they looked impressive," he said. "They were athletic and had a couple of big lineman. We played well but they made a lot of mistakes. We took advantage of their mistakes. They are a team that I think will get better as the season progresses. Some of their play-

Wildcats clawed by Bearcats 2-0

BY GREG WOODS

The Walton-Verona buzz saw struck again, this time biting the Henry County Lady Cats in its sights.

On Aug. 29, Henry County hosted the Lady Bearcats, who were on a 2-0 tear after falling to Trimble County in the All A Classic. After that loss, Walton ripped through Carroll and Gallatin Counties before heading to New Castle.

In the first game, the Lady Cats got out to a 4-3 lead before Walton went on a devastating 10-0 run featuring an assortment of kills, tips, blocks and dinks. The Cats tried to keep the game close with several long rallies during the run, but to no avail. Walton's frontline play was just too strong.

At 18-8 Walton killed, aced and blocked to go up 21-8, on their way to win the game 25-11.

In the second game, the Lady Cats started with a kill from Krista DeBurger, a hitting mistake by Walton and a kill by Megan Peyton to take a 3-0 lead. But Walton came back with an 8-0 run to take control again.

The Lady Cats had trouble getting back in the game as Walton had several more long runs. Henry managed to stop a run but then had trouble with their serves, which wound up being crucial in the match as Walton won the second and deciding game 25-14.

"They were a better team than we were," Henry County head coach Katie Ruff said. "They had some really great hitters and they found holes on our court. Any time we would get the ball back we would lose momentum by making a silly mistake or missing a serve."

Ruff believes that sophomore Destany Crawford is continuing to show marked improvement. "Destany had some great blocks for us," she said. "I was so impressed by her. She really stepped up."

Ruff found plenty for her team to work on before their Tuesday night match with Spencer.

"I think we need to work on our footwork and being much quicker to react to the ball and the plays,"

In a rematch of a game that took place just 10 days before the score came out nearly the same as the Carroll County Panthers defeated the Henry County Wildcats 7-1 in boys' soccer action.

But Coach Bobby Jameson felt that he got a much better performance from his team in circumstances that were less than ideal. The Wildcats had three yellow cards very early in the game, which hampered their ability to play physical soccer. The Panthers were awarded a penalty kick just 1:30 into the game, which, they converted, for a 1-0 lead.

Jameson felt that the team had a bit of bad luck offensively. "We had three or four shots go off the crossbar," he said. "We moved the ball better. We had several shots inside the penalty box but couldn't put them away. Two inches was the difference several times."

The Cats trailed 3-0 at the half and Carroll scored early in the 2nd half to effectively put the game away. Jacob Buckley scored a consolation goal for the

'Jackets sting Cats

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

With 61 players on their roster, the Woodford County Yellowjackets are deep.

That depth, plus size and speed, hurt the already injured Cats as they travelled to Versailles Friday and came up short against the 5A Yellowjackets, 44-6.

The 5A Yellowjackets proved to be too deep and athletic for the Wildcats.

"They were big and fast. They were deep," Henry County head coach Jason Spencer said. "They played a lot of people. We did too. But a rash of injuries at key spots caused us to have people go both ways in key positions. It was a very physical game. Give them credit; they are good at what they do."

Spencer declined to talk about specific injuries because most of the injured players were yet to have a final prognosis. At least two starting linemen went out in the game for the Wildcats: Billy Collier with an apparent knee injury and Tyler Craigmyle with a possible concussion. Starting running back Mason Fish sat out the game with badly bruised ribs from the Walton-Verona game.

The Yellowjackets set up the long ball with hard inside running. "Two times in the first quarter we held them to third-and-long, then got beat by the long

Still smarting from Class A loss, Warriors fall to Carroll 3-1

Warriors defeat Evangel 2-0

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

The Eminence Warriors volleyball team appeared to be a step slow, possibly still smarting from their Class A tournament defeat to Walton, as they hosted the Carroll County Lady Panthers on Aug. 27.

The Warriors lost the match 3-1 and fell to 2-1 in district play.

The opening game started with a missed serve by the Warriors and they never fully recovered. Although the game was close in the early stages, the Warriors could not put a run together.

With the score standing at 7-7 Carroll got the first breakthrough run of the game with a kill, a block and an ace to go up 10-7. Sensing a big run coming for the Lady Panthers, Eminence called timeout. The strategy temporarily worked, but at 11-8, the Lady Panthers put together a 6-0 run to go up 17-8. From there Carroll County sailed to the 25-16 win.

In the second game, the Warriors were down early at 5-2 but never let the Lady Panthers get too far ahead, and eventually took the lead at 12-11 on an ace by Tiffany Thomas.

A fake set by Gailynn Carroll put the Warriors up 13-11. The Warriors increased the lead and seemed to have momentum at 18-14, but Carroll County came storming back with a 5-0 run to tie the score at 19.

The next play, a tip by Carroll seemed to energize the Warriors to the level of intensity shown in previous matches and Tiffany Thomas followed the play with a forceful kill to give the Warriors a 2-point lead. From there Eminence went on to win the second game 25-20.

In the third game, Carroll County jumped out to 3-0 lead ers got a late start to the season.”

Frommeyer also was impressed with the facility that Riverview shares with other local teams. “The field had artificial turf and it was the first time many of our players had played on that type of surface. I thought we responded well,” he said.

Even more impressive to Frommeyer is the steady improvement that his team is making. “Each week we have played better and better and that is encouraging. We are trending upward right now. I hope the open week doesn’t hurt us,” he said, “On the other hand the open week may actually help us as far as injuries. It’ll get us healed up. Daishon (Moore) should be back for Sept. 14, and hopefully others will be healed up. We haven’t had a game where we had every starter.”

Frommeyer complimented the play of his linemen and their position coaches. “We have a relatively young and small line that is noticeably improving every week. Mark Meadows and Larry Montgomery have done a good job with them,” he said.

He also praised the defense, which has been stingy all season. “We had a really good defensive game. Ben Smith had 9 tackles and played his best game of the year so far. We held them to 51 yards rushing and none passing.”

Justin Mitchell also came in for praise. “We’re getting really quality play from our sophomore quarterback. He learned from previous mistakes and got better this week,” Frommeyer said.

pass play for touchdowns,” he said. “They lull you to sleep with the running game and then hit you with the long pass.”

Those two long touchdowns gave Woodford a 14-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Yellowjackets hit the Cats with two more scores in the second quarter to make the score 28-0 at halftime.

Woodford added a touchdown in each of the final two quarters and the Cats scored one in the fourth on Tyus Ford’s first varsity touchdown to make the final margin 38 points.

The Cats moved the ball well at times.

“We moved the ball on them some,” Spencer said.

“We just couldn’t sustain our drives until we got to the end zone. Brock Fish played well again. He ran the ball extremely well. Tyus Ford stepped in when Cody Tindle went out with cramps and did a good job running and receiving. Nick Magness had a good game on defense.”

Spencer was proud of his team’s effort. “The good thing is that the kids played extremely hard; even the kids that don’t usually play a lot,” he said. “Our varsity defense played much better in the second half. They only scored one touchdown against our varsity in the second half. Each individual just needs to get better to make the team better as a whole.”

The Wildcats take on Bellevue Friday in the team’s homecoming game.

Wildcats with about three minutes remaining.

Jameson found plenty to feel optimistic about after the game. "We have a new player that I think is going to be a big addition," he said. "Jacob Bratton played his first game for us and he did well. He has speed and energy and never stopped on the field. Jacob, Jesus Ramos, Gavin Jameson and Eddie Jones all displayed better passing than in previous games. Jacob's speed to get back on defense helped a lot.

"Our defense didn't give up," he added, "They played to the whistle which was an improvement over the last game."

Jameson said his young team still needs to learn to play with composure. "They get rattled by trash talk and physical play. They need to learn to handle tough situations."

The young and inexperienced Cats will have the opportunity to work on that this week with a busy schedule, playing four games in five days. The Cats took on Walton-Verona Tuesday night, play a rescheduled game against Gallatin at home today and then play two games in a tournament at Carroll County Saturday. The first game of that tournament is at 3:30 p.m. against Covington Holmes.

and maintained a small lead until, at 4-3, they went on an 8-0 run that forced Coach Stephanie Barrows into a timeout.

After the timeout, Carroll County scored another point before the Warriors were able to finally stop the run and regain the serve. The teams exchanged points for several serves before the Lady Panthers put together a mini-run to go up 18-7.

EHS tried to get back in the game and narrowed the margin to 21-17 on an ace by Emily Coomes. But the Warriors would get no closer as Carroll County went on to take the third game 25-18.

The fourth game was close in the opening stages as both teams traded serves. At 8-8, Carroll County reeled off four straight points to go up 12-8. The run featured nice net play by the Lady Panthers.

The margin stayed close until the Lady Panthers stretched the lead to 20-15. At that point a mishit by Carroll County and an ace from Brie Prewitt narrowed the score to 20-17 and Carroll County called timeout in order to stop any hopes of an Eminence rally. The timeout was in vain. Carroll County hit the ball out on the next play and Prewitt served up another ace to make it 20-19.

On the ensuing play the Lady Panthers got a big kill to stop the EHS momentum and take a 21-19 lead. From there the game remained close with the teams trading points until Carroll County finally closed out the match 25-23 on a net serve by Eminence.

Barrows was unusually succinct regarding the team's performance.

"I really don't have much to say on this game except that the team has learned from this loss and now know what they have to do to achieve their goals," she said. "Carroll won because we did not play as a team. We have been working on serve receiving, serving and playing together as team."

EHS 2 Evangel 0

The Warriors bounced back from the Carroll loss to squash Evangel Christian 25-8, 25-5.

"The girls responded well against Evangel coming off the loss to Carroll," Barrows said. "They went out and executed the plays very well. Evangel is very young and inexperienced so it was hard for them to get really into the game. They had as much energy as they could when playing a team like that. They went out very intense and ready to play!"

Barrows wanted the team to focus on the areas that she thought needed the most improvement coming out of the Carroll match and she felt the team did that.

"The main focus of this game was to set up plays and work to receive and they just did that," she said. "They went out very intense and ready to play! I was really proud of their performance."

HCHS GIRLS' SOCCER

Short on depth, Lady Cats drop two games

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

Short on depth already, the Henry County Lady Cats soccer team had even less to play with as nagging injuries shortened the roster even further for the young team.

"We are getting better as a team but we're young and the inexperience is showing," Coach Brandie Stivers said. "The injuries are hurting us the most however."

Without the services of midfielder Izzy Miller, the Lady Cats fell 3-0 to Carroll County.

The game started tight as neither team got on the scoreboard early, however Carroll scored late in the half to go up 1-0. The Panthers added a goal midway through the second half, and added a third near the end.

Also limited by injuries were defenders Katie Miller and Savannah Adams. Forward Rachel Vegh was slowed by shin splints.

Stivers had to adjust her team and had several players playing in new positions to make up for the injuries.

"We moved goalkeeper Sophie Hughes to defender and played backup goalie Maddie Rucker," Stivers said. "They both did a good job at making the adjustment. Kourtney Current moved into the middle for Izzy and did a good job distributing the ball. She has good instincts on the field."

"It is frustrating that we got beat by them because we know we can beat them but we are plagued by injuries right now. Everybody is a little off because we're banged up."

Stivers saw much to be pleased about as she tries to develop the young squad. "Micah Lineman did well in this game," she said. "We've been working on making moves and she actually used some of them in the game to get herself free from the defense. Sophie did well in the back and the whole defense did a good job at holding them at bay. Justice Kirk and Jessica Holcomb played really well.

The Lady cats got off to a slow start in this game but finished strong. The Lady Eagles scored three goals in the first half and it looked like the rout was on but the Lady Cats played them even in the second half to finish on a good note.

"It was a very physical game," Stivers said, "but we battled despite everything. We had several people banged up and had to play some of our most inexperienced girls but we actually played much better in the second half."

Teressa Deweese who had been playing as a winger was moved into the central midfield and scored on a 20-yarder. Destiny Phillips also scored on a 15-yarder off of an assist from Eugenia Hernandez.

Stivers was pleased with the play of winger Sarah Foree. "Sarah is excellent on throw-ins and at creating space by taking the ball down the sideline. Destiny, Kourtney and Teressa played well too."

Stivers sees a bright future for the young Lady Cats. She said, "I think we have a lot of individual talent. We need to get better as a team and we are getting there."

The Lady Cats took on Walton Tuesday night and host Collins today at 5:30 p.m.

HCHS CROSS COUNTRY

Cross Country Cats compete in first meet at Shelby

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

A young Henry County Cross Country squad opened its season Saturday against some of the area's top teams.

The Cross Country Cats competed in its first meet of the season when they traveled to Shelbyville to run in the Shelby County Invitational, which included regional powers South Oldham, North Oldham and Collins.

Meade County won the boys' race with a very impressive score of 43 points. Louisville Butler was second with 81 points and South Oldham was third with 83 points.

The young Henry County squad finished the race with 320 points and 12th place.

Individually, the Cats were led by sophomore Austin Payton who finished in 21:02, good for 68th place. Sophomore Jesse Mann was 70th in 21:20. Henry County's third finisher was junior Chase Slone, who finished 73rd in 21:32. Ethan Smith finished in 80th place with a time of 22:15 and Eddie Jones rounded out the scoring for the Cats with an 81st place finish in 22:22. Also running for the Wildcats but not figuring in the scoring were Matt Petree who finished 83rd with a time of 22:25 and Cole Wilson who finished 87th in 22:43.

The Lady Cats put only two runners on the line in the varsity race as Izzy Miller was out due an eye injury and the fact that the young squad wanted to let their middle schoolers compete as a team. Some of those middle school girls will figure prominently in the team later in the year.

For now though, it was junior Cathryn Fischer and freshman Micah Lineman going to the line for the Lady Cats. Fischer finished the race in 71st place with a time of 26:23 and Lineman finished in 83rd place with a time of 28:13.

South Oldham won the team competition with 47 points to edge Louisville Butler who finished with 48 points. Mercy Academy, also from Henry County's region, finished third with 73 points.

In the boys' junior varsity race, a couple of young Wildcats put up times that will challenge for varsity spots next time out. Freshman Seth Amiott finished the race in 24th place with a time of 21:07, which would have been the second best time in the varsity race. Sophomore John Bates finished in 21:47 that also would have put him in thick of scoring runners for the varsity Cats.

Also competing in the JV race were freshmen Cameron Morgan, Connor Finley and Dale Davis. Morgan finished the race in 25:04, Finley in 25:44 and Davis in 36:47.

"I think that it was a great starting point for us. Coach Ricky Drawbaugh and I feel really good about it," Coach Victoria Michels said after the race. "It was our first meet of the season and for the most part everybody performed at or above expectations."

"Austin Payton and Jesse Mann did great. Jesse has been running 5th or 6th in practice and came up as our 2nd finisher. Austin Payton was just 20 seconds off his personal record in the first meet of the season on a difficult course."

"We need to get (the girls' team) healthy and keep running. Cathryn and Micah both did better here than they did last year."

The running Cats go to Carroll County Tuesday and then travel to North Oldham for the Rumble in the Jungle Saturday.

Boys golf loses to Shelby

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

Young players led another Henry County golf team last week. This time, on Aug. 27, fifth-grader Alex Hadden led the team with a 48, as the boys' golf team fell to Shelby County 186-217.

Other performances on the team include 8th grader Dillon Allen and fifth grader Isaac Klempner, who each shot 51; freshman Connor Lyons shot 67. Also competing but not figuring in the scoring were Shayne Strong who shot 70 and Tyler Tingle who shot 72.

"I knew this was going to be a tough season with such young players, but I am still so proud of my boys for how hard they are working on their games," assistant coach Steve Allen said. "They practice after team practices; they practice after matches; that says a lot about them. Their futures look very good in this game considering how hard they work on it now."

Lady Cats rely on young players, beat Oldham

BY GREG WOODS
Sports Editor

An already young Lady Cats golf team was even younger last week as its oldest player sat out a home match against Oldham County.

Coach Willie Peyton decided to have MacKenzie Peyton, his best and oldest player, sit out the home match against Oldham County in order to allow her to focus on a big tournament coming up this weekend. He also wanted to be able to give another of his young players the opportunity to score in a varsity match.

The move paid off as the Lady Cats pulled out a 219-222 victory over Oldham County at the Henry County Country Club.

Leading the way for the Cats was sixth grader Maddie Hensley who shot a 39 in the 9-hole match. Cheyenne Clark, who was the oldest player on the team to compete, shot 54. Sixth graders Nikki Perkinson and Claire Young each shot 63 to round out the scoring for the Lady Cats. Also competing but not figuring in the scoring were sixth grader Haley Peyton who shot 72 and Tori Williams who shot 71.

"Our young team is playing well. Maddie Hensley is playing exceptionally well while preparing for conference and regional," Peyton said. "Cheyenne Clark's scores are continuing to improve with every match."

Peyton explained the decision to hold MacKenzie Peyton out of the match. "MacKenzie had the night off and practiced for the Gene Hilan Invitational at Juniper Hills in Frankfort," he said. "This tournament is an invitation type tournament where top players and teams in the state are invited to attend. MacKenzie will be playing with Lydia Gumm from North Hardin who is rated the No. 1 high school golfer in Kentucky. Lydia has already committed to Auburn. Also in MacKenzie's group will be Megan Kenny from Western Hills High School. Megan has committed to the University of Kentucky for next season."
